

Meet the Team

KEN HALL

Ken has had the privilege of working with people from small to large, multisite organisations both in the UK and Europe with some clients extending to the middle east. Originally starting his career as a mortgage advisor in 2008, he made a shift to learning and development in 2009 building a strong and positive relationship with senior stakeholders. He has designed and delivered both technical and soft skill learning interventions for a range of audiences and now with more focus being on Virtual Learning, he is an Certified Online Learning Facilitator from the Learning and Performance Institute.

With further experience in sectors such as Retail, Automotive, Government and Health Care, Ken brings this cross experience to you when engaging in training or 1:1 coaching sessions. Bringing learning to life means organisations and their colleagues can build their skills to achieve goals and aspirations be it for business or personal growth.
